

Stichera at "Lord, I Call"

Translation of the Relics of the Holy and Wonderworking Unmercenaries Cyrus & John - June 28

Tone 4
Sticheron 1

Russian Imperial Court Chant
arr. from L'vov/Bakhmetev

Soprano
Alto

Let us all honor Cy - rus with hymns, and with him the

Tenor
Bass

mag - nif - i - cent John, the two mar - tyrs who pos - sessed the radiance of the Trin - i - ty, the foun - da - tion of the Faith!

They are flowers sending forth the true fragrance of the un - der -

[-stand - ing of Christ, ...]

stand - ing of Christ, // who ever pray to the Lord for us.

Sticheron 2

Thou wast radiant with fasting and the glo - ry of life, and later thou didst adorn thy soul with suffering, O glo - rious

Cy - rus. In wis - dom, O John, didst thou forsake an earth-ly ar - my and didst find the army of heav - en.

[As you entreat the...]

As you entreat the Sav - ior, O bless - ed ones, //

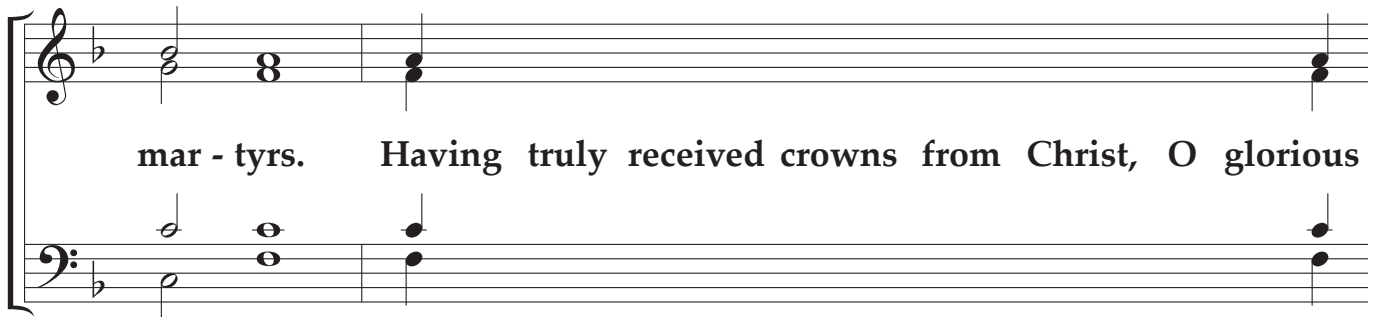

pray for those who bless your mem - o - ry!

Sticheron 3

O blessèd ones, you are revealed as phy - si - cians of the sick, and never - fading lamps of the divine Fa - ther. You ut - tered your confession together and shared in the lot of mar - tyrs. Having truly received crowns from Christ, O glorious Cy - rus and wise — John, // ever pray to the Savior for those who hymn you with faith!