War, fam-ine, and civ - il strife were the burdens thou didst bear,

O our Hier - arch. Yet thou didst cry to the enraged peo-ple, say - ing:

“Love your neighbor, and re - turn back to the Lord!” // call - ing them onto the path of salvation through re - pent - ance.

Thy life was illumined by the light of thy great deeds, which enlightened all the faith - ful, and de-stroyed the darkness of earth-ly pas - sions; for thou didst ap - pear as the ra - diant sun, O most bles - ed Hi - er - arch Tikh - on. And now thou abidest in the heav - en - ly man - sions where the ever - last - ing Light shines in [glory / through the presence . . .]

glo - ry through the presence of the Son and the grace of the Ho - ly Spir - it. There - fore, with cease - less hon - or and praise, // we venerate thy holy and radiant mem - o - ry.

Thy thoughts were al - ways turned to God and were filled with faith and love. There - fore, O Glorious One, thou didst appear in bright - ness, [with the radiance of the Angels.]

with the ra - diance of the An - gels. And in - cor - rup - tion clothed thy earth - ly re - mains; for thou didst live a life devoid of pas - sions. There - fore, O godlywise Hier - arch Tikh - on, thou hast been a - dorned with vir - tue. O Lamp of the di - vine Light, // ceaselessly pray for us who lovingly honor thy mem - o - ry!
