Now the flaming sword no longer guards the gates of Eden; it has been mysteriously quenched by the wood of the Cross! The sting of death and the victory of hell have been vanquished, for You, O my Saviour, have come and cried to those in hell: “Enter again into paradise.”